Optimising Collaborative New Product Introduction

Collaborative New Product Introduction

Working with multiple stakeholders to introduce new products often involves numerous complex spreadsheets alongside multiple emails and disparate monitoring systems, to track project status; which often leads to miscommunication, neglected tasks and missed deadlines. Valuechain NPI is a collaborative project management solution that streamlines robust new product introduction processes for advanced manufacturing businesses, and their supply chain partners.

A Smarter Way to Work

No longer will you need to maintain complex spreadsheets and send multiple emails to track New Product Introduction status. Valuechain NPI streamlines, standardises and digitalises best practice business processes, ensuring your organisation becomes more connected, automated and collaborative. For example, all authorised project members can access dynamically maintained project dashboards, task consoles, risk registers and lessons learned logs, so that project risks are effectively mitigated whilst adhering to planned milestones.

Reduce Project Lead-times

Minimise Project Risks

Increase Customer Confidence

Improve Sub-tier Performance

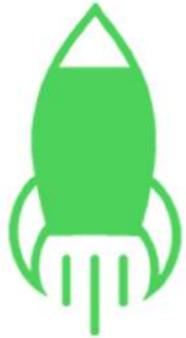

Capture Insights & Embed Knowledge

Continually Improve Your Processes

Create Digitalised Projects

Systemise standard operating procedures by designing gated project templates to ensure repeatability of robust workflow that can efficiently manage projects and mitigate risk.

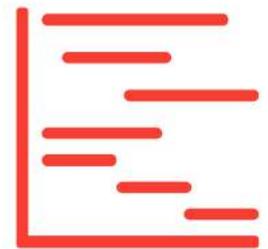

Launch New Projects

Configure project templates for the work package requirements, and define team accountability from within your company, or with your suppliers, to get everyone on the same page, and kick off your projects for success.

Manage Projects

Manage projects and all team members from one integrated platform; allowing members to comment on activities, raise risks, and contribute to complete tasks.

Analyse Performance

By capturing and digitally recording the completion of stage gates, risks raised, and changes to the project plan. You can accurately analyse not only product quality, but process and supplier performance.

Learn & Continuously Improve

Capturing all project information from multiple stakeholders in one platform, ensure you can accurately review project and team performance to help you continuously improve processes.
